HOMEMAKERS ITEMS

When lengthening children's dress-es, you can easily conceal the crease line of the first hem by covering it with rickrack or braid in matching or contrasting colors. If the dress has faded, try adding several rows of trim to minimize the stronger hem color.

The popular song about bananas was correct. They should not be kept in the refrigerator. The bana-na peels will turn brown, the ba-nanas fail to ripen properly, and they will taste flat and starchy.

Yellow onions usually do not need to be refrigerated. They will keep well in a pantry or kitchen. However, if they are packaged in film bags when bought remove them. Onions held in film bags may start to root or sprout. White or red onions do not keep as well as yel-low onions and should be refriger-ated.

The best way to become financi-ally independent is to learn how to say "no" to yourself and keep your money for future use.

KNOW THE WEATHER

By E. H. Sims

Do you know why the first big drops of a thundershower are us-ually so widley scattered? Have you ever noticed this at the begin-ning of a thunder shower?

The first drops of a thunder-shower falling from the summer cumulonimbus, must fall through a very strong updraft which is al-ways present in the leading edge fo the thunderstorm. Most of the drops are caught up in this up-draft and carried far aloft.

The bigger, heavier raindrops fall through the rising wind cur-rents, but only the largest are heavy enough to maintain their downward fall, against the wind. Therefore, standing on the ground or on payment, you will notice that the first big drops are wid-elyscattered and probably the large-est raindrops which will fall during the thunderstorm.

Many of the others are carried upward to the freezing level and forzen into hail. Only occasionally does this hail survive in frozen form until it strikes the ground.
